

Puss in Boots

Puss is a stray cat. He wants a home. A poor and unhappy man walks by. His name is Bill. "Please take me home," says Puss. "I am a smart cat. I can catch rats. I can sing and I can dance. You look very unhappy. I can make you happy." "How?" asks Bill.

"Please get me some boots," says Puss. Bill takes Puss to a shoemaker. He makes Puss a pair of boots. "Now I can make you happy." says Puss. Puss catches a turkey. He gives the turkey to the king. "It's from Bill, the kindest man in town," says Puss. "I would like to meet him," says the king.

Bill and Puss walk to a river. "It's hot. I would like to swim," says Bill. Bill jumps into the river. Puss looks around. "The king is coming," he shouts. "Quick! Put on your clothes."

"Oh, no! The water is too deep," cries Bill. "Help! Help! The kindest man in town is drowning!" shouts Puss. "The kindest man in town is drowning in the river!" shouts the king. "Quick, soldiers! Help him out!"

They take Bill and Puss to the palace and give them some new clothes. "Wow! You look very handsome," says Puss.

The princess likes Bill very much. "Father, may I marry this handsome man" "Yes, my dear," says the king. Suddenly, a magician comes, "I want to marry the princess," he says. "No, you can't!" says the king.

The magician is angry. He says, "Shaboom, shaboom. Out comes the broom. I sweep the log. You are a frog. Boom!" The king changes into a frog. Puss says, "You are a great magician. I want to learn magic from you."

"Oh! You are so amazing!" says Puss. "But can you change into a rat?" "Of course! Watch this," says the magician. "Shaboom, shaboom. I sweep the cat. I am a rat. Boom!" The magician changes into a rat. Puss quickly catches the rat.

"Shaboom, shaboom. Out comes the broom. I sweep your ring. You are the king. Boom!" The frog changes back into the king. "Thank you, Puss," says the king. "You are very smart. You may marry the princess." Bill and the princess are both very sad.

"Oh, no. I can't marry her. Bill and the princess love each other," Puss says. "Then, you can marry the princess, Bill," says the king. "Thank you, king. And thank you, Puss," says Bill. Puss smiles and says, "You see, Bill, I can make you happy!"